Virginia Editors

Welcome, Yer Honor.

We have with us to-day the Honom Jeter Crutchield, Judge of the folice Court of Richmond, who is known in that city as "The One John" because there is none like him.

To be sure, we have a unique Justice John in this city, but one star different from another star in glory. Each of these stars is a star of the first magnitude, but each twinkles in its own sphere and cach shineth in its ewn brilliant way.

Justice Crutchfield needs no introduction in this community. His fame has preceded him. He is not only a judge, but a fawmaker, lie is sole manufacturer of that peculiar brand of law known to Richmond as "Crutchfield law." It has sometimes been questioned by pert attorneys, but it has never been declared by the Court of Appeals to be unconstitutional. The

The True Booster.

Here is an editorial in verse from the Chamber of Commerce of Cincinnati. It was slipped to the Walking Editor by one of the oldest citizens of Newport News, who never knocks and ever boosts. The editorial follows:

If you want to make a hit
Get a name.
If the other fellow's it
Who's to blame?
Spend your money in the town
Where you pull the shekels down,
That's the game! If you're used to giving knocks
Change your style.
Throw bouquets instead of rocks
For a while.
Let the other fellow roast.

Shun him as you would a ghost, Meet his hammer with a boast And a smile. When a stranger from afar

Amor Virginiae.

Writes John Allan Wyeth, famous surgeon in New York, celebrated author, and noted Confederate veteran, in his memorial tribute to a distinguished alumnus of the Institute, who was his friend and companion:

"One of the most charming of the many melodies which my dear Black Mammy" used to sing to me in my thought the Nicholson Scheol, showing the need for additional space for reading-recoms, an assembly hall, recreation-rooms for domestic science classes, and for manual training-rooms. At present, he said, the school is teaching nineteen grades, with sixteen teachers, in thirteen regular classrooms. The thirteen regular classrooms. At United the Councilman Rogers spoke. A further meeting was called for Tuesday, where a permanent organization will be effected and the people of Fulton enlisted in a fight for a new school building

To the sentiment expressed in this familiar melody Dr. Wyeth added an equally beautiful tribute when he wrote:

"There is something in the blue sky, which arches over her mountains and hills and plains, something in the air whether of the tidewater lands or of the higher sweeps of the Appalachian range, which hold captive the hearts of those who are to the manor born and native there. To her sons and daughters, Virginia is as the Holy Land

The Auditor's Report and the Tax Problem.

According to the report of State Auditor C. Lee Moore, made public within the past few days, there are in Virginia only twenty-nine counties which are operated at a profit to the State annually. In other words, only twenty-nine counties pay into the State Treasury annually more than they draw out for experience.

Superintendent J. A. C. Chandler, of the Richmond public schools, spoke last night before a large audience in the auditorium of Nicholson School on "The Administration of Our City Schools." He was introduced by Principal S. P. Duke, who briefly reviewed the remarkable progress made by the Richmond schools during the superintendent's term of office.

Dr. Chandler explained the present organization of the Schools, and said that he had always had the fullest cooperation of the City Council in meeting as far as possible the needs of the schools in the matter v-appropriations. Instead of a uniform rigid curriculum for all the schools, Dr. Chandler said he favored the elective system, whereby pupils would be allowed some choice in the selection of the studies they should pursue. Judging from cities of Richmond's size, Dr. Chandler said that Richmond was not spending as large a proportion of its funds for schools as many others. It was the duty of the city, he said, to provide adequate saniproportion of its funds for schools as many others. It was the duty of the city, he said, to provide adequate sani-
